CIA Deputy
Says Soviets
Spy on Kin

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 27 (AP)—

Col. Lawrence K. White, deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency, said today getting accurate information about activities in Russia is extremely difficult because the entire population "has been carefully trained to spy on itself."

Addressing the general opening session of the 61st annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, White said Russian families spy on their relatives "with a zeal and conviction that is astonishing."

"And it is even more astonishing when you consider that the popular conception that 'every Russian is a Communist' is definitely not true. The Soviet leaders have established complete control over their population of approximately 210,000,000 people with an actual Communist Party of 7,000,000, or one person out of every 30 in the country."
